

John is a 11-year-old boy raised in Townsville, Australia, where he developed a passion for singing, playing the piano and musical theatre. He has been performing on stage since he was six years old, singing at local events and playing various roles.

John recently received an award for the most Promising Male Vocalist (13years & under) in Australia. He has successfully completed his Grade 4 Classical Singing & Musical Theatre exam with Trinity College London receiving a Distinction.

Making his first debut for Matt Ward Entertainment, as the first youngest performer at 8years old, John reprised the role of 'Benji' in Priscilla Queen of the Desert on the Gold Coast, Australia.

John made his international recording debut with Paul Ettore Tabone (Tenor and West End Star) in the single Christmas EP "Song for an Unknown Child". He continues to work closely with Paul Ettore Tabone, receiving private vocal lessons and mentorship.
